It is no exaggeration to say that the swallow is one of the most famous Portuguese symbols. A symbol of love and lovalty, but also of home and family, this bird represents feelings that are deeply rooted in Portuguese culture. It all started in 1891 when Rafael Bordallo Pinheiro designed the first ceramic swallow at his famous ceramic factory. It auickly became a bestseller and a symbol of Portuguese life. Nowadays, vou'll find these 'andorinhas' everywhere. As an icon of Portugal, these delicate items are one of the best souvenirs that can be offered.

Traditional black swallows or contemporary ones with bright colours... The choice is yours!

Pack 'Green Azulejos'

Pastes of black and green olives, produced in an artisanal way with Portuguese varieties.

The black olive paste variety, 'Negrinha do Douro', with spices, and the green olive paste variety, 'Galega', with fig,

N°1 - 'Negrinha do Douro' olive paste with spices

Produced in olive groves on the steep slopes of the Douro Valley region, this PDO olive, combined with spices and preserved only in extra virgin olive oil, has a violet black color, natural to fresh olives, a creamy appearance, with pieces of spices, with intense odor characteristic of fresh olives.

N°2 - 'Galega' green olive paste with dry figs

This paste is a mixture of the Galega olive, a unique variety in the world and known as the "Portuguese olive", with a vibrant green color, and the honeyed fig, produced in the region of Trás-os-Montes - Portugal, which gives it sweetness. for acidity balance.

Taste surprising Portuguese flavours with these original jams in tubes! Made in an artisanal way, they are among the best handmade and gourmet jams in the world, with several international awards for flavour.

- N°1 'Rocha' Pear (PDO) is an exclusively Portuguese variety produced, for the most part, on the Central West Coast of Portugal. It is a fruit with an appetizing color, texture and flavor. 'Douro' Muscatel, a liqueur wine, makes an extremely delicate and light connection with Rocha pear, making it a sweet with a unique flavor.
- N°2 This pumpkin jam is the most traditional Portuguese jam and one of the most used by the Portuguese. A delicate mixture of pumpkin and orange, rosemary honey and eucalyptus honey, cinnamon and almond, make this jam unique.
- N°3 This sweet jam, with cherry from Fundão PGI (Protected Geographical Indication), a cherry variety traditionally grown in the heart of Cova da Beira, of firm and fleshy consistency, is flavored with the brandy of unique aroma and flavor.
- N°4 Blueberry Jam of the Duke variety, a berry with a resistant texture and an attractive blue-purple color, of high quality, with a semi-sweet and mild flavor, a wild fruit, with flavors ranging from the slightly sweet, sour and bitter, flavored with Port wine, from the Douro Valley region.
- N°5 Bravo de Esmolfe apple, is an apple with Protected Designation of Origin (PDO), from Beira Alta, juicy, sweet and at the same time acidic, which combined with cinnamon, creates a delicate jam with a unique flavor, very appreciated for spreading bread, croissants, toasts and accompanying with a tea.
- N°6 This fig jam, variety honey drop, produced in the region of Trás-os-Montes, is a sweet, tasty fruit with a consistent pulp, mixed with orange from the Algarve region, a sweet and sour fruit, and flavored with Port wine, one of the most appreciated liqueur wines in the world produced in the Douro Valley.

- > 1 Graham's 10 year Old Tawny.

Graham's was founded in 1820 and belongs to the Symington family.

In the South of Portugal, there is a wild, exuberant and strong spirit called "Aguardente de Medronho". "Aguardente" means fire water and "Medronho" is the fruit of the "Medronheiro', also called strawberry tree. This spirit is one of the most popular Portuguese drinks: The 'Pura' one is still distillated by traditional method.
